Client testimonials:

Dennis Faas, Infopackets.com: John Lister has been writing for Infopackets as far back as 2006. As the CEO and Chief Editor of Infopackets, I've always found John's articles interesting to read. John is very flexible, able to put together compositions with minimal instruction, and always delivers on time. If there have ever been any issues, John has gotten back to me straight away. I highly recommend John if you are looking for a well-rounded, trustworthy and reliable writer for your company.

William Annison: HWWA Consulting: We have regularly asked John to research and write articles for us for a number of projects and most commonly for the Latest News section of our website. John is very approachable and easy to deal with. He picks up topics quickly and writes copy for us within the timescales we agree and we have found that we are able to post his copy without amendments. We will continue to work with John because we think he is excellent at what he does and do highly recommended his services.
